Poems:

AT THE END OF THE YEAR

As this year draws to its end, We give thanks for the gifts it brought
And how they became inlaid within Where neither time nor tide can touch them.

Days when beloved faces shone brighter With light from beyond themselves;
And from the granite of some secret sorrow
A stream of buried tears loosened.

We bless this year for all we learned, For all we loved and lost
And for the quiet way it brought us Nearer to our invisible destination.

John O'Donohue

Excerpt from 'At the End of the Year'

BENEDICTUS (Europe) / TO BLESS THE SPACE BETWEEN US

....May we have the courage to take the step Into the unknown that beckons us; Trust that a richer life awaits us there, That we will lose nothing But what has already died; Feel the deeper knowing in us sure Of all that is about to be born beyond The pale frames where we stayed confined

John O'Donohue - an excerpt from "A Blessing for the Time of Necessary Decision."

LET IT DIE

Let it die

Let it go until the last gasping breaths have settled until the final shreds of confetti have landed and all tears have been shed, unveiling deep laughter and gratitude pouring through overwhelming any gripping gripe nor argument to hold to what was

Let it die

until it's clear that the soul's exodus is complete until freedom reigns
and a blossom of new heart has begun to reveal in whispers of presence
that awaken from inside
letting die the leftovers completing all that has been until the party becomes for what is now.
